Just got your first offer letter and it's 3 LPA? Congratulations! But now you're staring at the CTC wondering, "3LPA how much per month actually hits my account?"

Let's decode this without putting you to sleep.

Here's the breakdown:

- 3 LPA = ₹3,00,000 per annum
- That's ₹25,000 per month gross salary (before deductions)
- After EPF (~₹1,800), professional tax (varies by state), and minimal income tax, you're left with around ₹20,000 to ₹22,000 in-hand per month

It's not baller money, but it gets the engine running — enough for rent, data recharge, and the occasional Swiggy splurge.

Fact Check:

3 LPA is the average starting salary for many freshers in sectors like BPO, sales, support, and even some IT roles.*

FAQs

Is 3 LPA enough to survive in cities like Bangalore, Pune, or Delhi?

Absolutely — if you're living with flatmates, cooking your own meals, and not treating Starbucks as therapy.

Do I need to pay income tax on 3 LPA?

Most likely not. After deductions like PF and standard exemptions under the old tax regime, your taxable income may fall below the threshold. Still, file your ITR — the IT department loves responsible citizens.
